Revascent

THE BUSINESS BEHIND THE IMAGE

Imaging has advanced. Has your revenue cycle?

Revenue cycle management for radiology groups and imaging centers, built around how imaging actually gets paid.

One imaging study can become two claims, from two organizations, under two payment systems. Add multiple places of service and payment rules written only for imaging, and one setup error repeats on every claim it touches.

One imaging study

Technical component: equipment, technologists, space.
Billed by the hospital or imaging center, by setting.

Professional component: interpretation and report.
Billed by the reading group.

One study. Two components. Every detail counts.

What Revascent's radiology team handles

Technical and professional components

Coding and billing for both components of diagnostic services, across multiple places of service.

Screening and diagnostic mammography

Coding and billing for both, where coverage, patient cost and documentation differ.

Charge capture to payment

Charge capture, coding, claims, denial management, patient engagement and payment processing for MRI, CT, ultrasound and mammography.

Reporting you can act on

Revenue cycle reporting on key metrics, revenue trends and claim denials.

40+ years of medical practice and specialty-service revenue cycle expertise

$1B+ in accounts receivable managed across Revascent's client base (company-wide)

- Certified people. Radiology coding and billing by AAPC- and AHIMA-certified team members.
- A high-touch partner. Concierge-level service, with human oversight supported by technology.
- More than billing. PACS, EHR and practice management integration, plus practice administration that helps independent imaging centers grow.
